ABSTRACT

Based on a survey conducted by the American Association of Junior Colleges (AAJC), this directory provides information on 993 community, junior, and technical colleges and two-year branch campuses in the United States and its territories, and AAJC members in other countries, including statistics on 1967-68 enrollments, personnel, and student costs. Following material on the scope of the directory, an analysis of two-year college growth from 1961 to 1968 is presented. Next, the directory lists the colleges alphabetically by state, including the following information for each: location; chief administrative head; year organized as a junior college; type of control or affiliation; AAJC membership; state recognition or accrediting agency; programs (i.e., transfer and/or occupational); co-educational or single-sex status; October 1967 enrollment of full- and part-time freshman, sophomore, and unclassified students; October 1967, summer 1968, and October 1968 total enrollments; full- and part-time faculty and administrators in 1967-68; and tuition per academic year for in-district, out-of-district, and out-of-state students. Statewide enrollment summaries are then provided for all institutions and for public and independent colleges, followed by tables showing distribution by size of enrollment, independent and church-related schools by type of control, and accredited schools by state. Changes in institutions since the previous year, information on AAJC, junior college organizations, and state administrators of two-year college education are covered in the final sections. (AYC)

INTRODUCTION

One of the most pressing tasks of the American Association of Junior Colleges is to gather and maintain up-to-date information on the growing field which the national organization represents. With more than fifty new junior and community colleges opening each year, the Association, as a national clearinghouse for junior college affairs, recognizes an obligation to assemble data that will assist audiences interested in the two-year college. High school students, their counselors, and parents; university researchers; government planners; community groups.

Each year, as a basic phase of its information program, the Association collects current enrollment figures and other data for publication in the Junior College Directory. With the cooperation of state offices of junior college education, and the two-year colleges themselves, we believe that we are able to provide an accurate profile of junior and community college growth. The 1969 Junior College Directory, therefore, was compiled and edited as a means of assisting in the ongoing search for useful information.

Essentially, the Directory serves as a guide for those who seek more specific and detailed information from individual institutions. While AAJC represents a majority of the country's junior and community colleges, the Directory itself includes nonmember as well as member colleges of the national organization.

It will be noted that not all institutions listed in the publication call themselves junior or community colleges. Some may use the title technical institute or university branch. But the editors have made an effort to include all institutions that are organized on a two-year basis, have state recognition and/or regional accreditation, and offer two-year associate degree programs. We have tried to be as comprehensive as possible in the listing in order to be of greater assistance to those interested.

The number of colleges listed continued to grow with the publication of the 1969 Directory. A larger percentage of the institutions listed for the first time are new colleges; a smaller number are institutions that have been in existence for some years but have not claimed junior college status until recently. Some technical institutes and university branches not heretofore listed are included in this category.

About sixty new colleges did open in 1968, as shown in the Directory (see Analysis on Page 6). The openings of the new colleges contributed to a substantial increase in enrollments.

In addition to enrollment data, the Directory contains information on tuitions and fees, on programs, accreditation, control, types of institutions, Association membership, and on numbers of personnel employed in the colleges. There are also summary tables on enrollment by state and size of institutions.

Information was obtained through a questionnaire survey. The Association, therefore, has relied heavily on the reporting institutions for accuracy of all information contained in this publication. More detailed data on junior colleges may be found in the seventh edition of American Junior Colleges (1967) published by the American Council on Education, 1785 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. (That compilation, of course, does not include institutions established during the past two years.)

The American Association of Junior Colleges in general follows the criteria established for American Junior Colleges in determining those institutions to be included in the Directory. That is, institutions included were those accredited or recognized by the country's six regional accrediting agencies and state-level agencies authorized to approve junior colleges. The Directory does not include proprietary colleges.

The staff for the report includes William A. Harper, Jack C. Gernhart, Nancy Floyd, and Janet Robertson. The Association acknowledges the expert assistance provided by the Research Division of the National Education Association in processing information collected.

An Analysis

In addition to certain basic information about two-year colleges, the 1969 Junior College Directory also offers new insights into developments in the field which it covers. An analysis of the current Directory, which contains information about the academic year 1967-68 and the fall of 1968, reveals the following:

1. A decrease in the number of church-related and independent two-year colleges. Student enrollments are down in these types of institutions
2. A continued increase in enrollments for institutions that opened during the past three years
3. A growing indication of the new status of technical institutes as recognized institutions of higher education
4. A continued increase in the establishment of new institutions.

The number of reporting institutions grew from 912 in 1967 to 993 in 1968—a net increase of eighty-one colleges during the year. The 993 colleges report a total enrollment of 1,954,116 students—a gain of 282,675 over that reported in 1967. This represents increases of 16.9 per cent in student enrollment and 8.9 per cent in reporting colleges. The number of reporting colleges includes fifty-four new institutions and fifty-nine institutions established prior to the fall of 1968, now listed for the first time. Of these institutions, twenty-six are technical institutes and twenty-five are two-year branches of universities. This information is based on recommendations from the various state directors of community junior colleges. Of the 912 colleges listed in the 1968 Directory, thirty-three are not listed in the new Directory. A list of all changes, with explanations, follows Table VII.

The consistent increase in enrollment of community junior colleges over the past seven years is revealed again in the data for 1968. A summary of this growth is as follows:

GROWTH IN NUMBER AND ENROLLMENT OF JUNIOR COLLEGES 1961-1968

Year	Number of Colleges	Enrollment	Per Cent of Increase in Enrollment
1961	678	748,619
1962	704	818,869	9.38
1963	694	927,534	13.27
1964	719	1,043,963	12.55
1965	771	1,292,753	23.83
1966	837	1,464,099	13.25
1967	912	1,671,440	14.16
1968	993	1,954,116	16.91

As indicated, at least fifty-four new colleges were established, all of them public. Several others were believed to have opened but confirming data was not made available. The new colleges had initial fall enrollments in 1968 of 46,969 students. These initial enrollments varied from 107 to a high of 3,864. Nineteen of these new institutions each opened their doors to more than 1,000 students. Seven new community colleges opened in Illinois; five in New Jersey; four each in California and Kentucky; three each in Michigan, New York, Texas, and Virginia. Six new technical institutes began operations in North Carolina.

Of special interest is enrollment data from the new colleges that opened in 1966 and 1967. Fifty-six new institutions opened in 1966 with a total enrollment of 55,600. In 1967, these same colleges enrolled 90,900 students—an increase of 63.4 per cent in their second year of operation. In 1968, these institutions reported total enrollments of 109,192 students—a gain of 20.1 per cent over their 1967 enrollment and a net increase of 96.4 per cent over their original opening enrollments. Colleges that opened in 1967 appear to show even more marked growth. Seventy-three new institutions opened in 1967 with a total of 66,789 students or an average of 915 per institution. In 1968, these same colleges reported 113,203 students—an increase of 46,414 or 69.5 per cent over the preceding fall. In the three-year period 1966-1968, 183 new institutions were opened. Their 1968 enrollments totaled 269,363 students or 13.78 per cent of the total two-year college enrollment.

Enrollments in public community-junior colleges for 1968 were up by 282,744 students over 1967, or an increase of 18.50 per cent. Forty-four states reported overall gains in enrollment while six states reported slight decreases. The greatest increases were reported in New Jersey (103.86 per cent), Virginia (40.62 per cent), Kentucky (38.95 per cent), Massachusetts (38.70 per cent), and Maryland (33.75 per cent). These states are not among those reporting technical institutes and branches of universities for the first time.

Of the 739 public colleges reporting in 1968, 621 showed gains totaling 330,299 students, while 109 showed net losses of 35,458. Nine colleges reported the same enrollments for both years. Six colleges listed in the 1967 Directory became or are in the process of becoming four-year institutions; consequently, they are not listed in this Directory. They had a 1967 enrollment totaling 12,097 students.

GROWTH IN NUMBER AND ENROLLMENT OF PUBLIC TWO-YEAR COLLEGES 1961-1968

Year	Number of Colleges	Enrollment	Per Cent of Increase in Enrollment
1961	405	644,968	-----
1962	426	713,334	10.59
1963	422	814,244	14.14
1964	452	921,093	13.12
1965	503	1,152,086	25.07
1966	565	1,316,980	14.31
1967	648	1,528,220	16.03
1968	739	1,810,964	18.50

Church-related and independent two-year college enrollments show a net decrease of 68 students for 1968. The number of colleges declined from 264 to 254. Of the 264 colleges listed in the 1968 Directory, twenty-six are not listed in the 1969 listings. Ten of these institutions closed during the past year; seven became or are in the process of becoming four-year institutions; and nine failed to respond to repeated requests for information. The ten colleges that closed had a 1967 enrollment of 717; the colleges that became four-year institutions had an enrollment of 5,124; and the remaining nine colleges had a 1967 enrollment of 1,321. Of the 264 colleges reported in the 1968 Directory, 115 colleges showed gains of 9,856 students while sixteen colleges reported no changes in enrollments. The remaining 134 colleges, which includes those being dropped from the 1969 Directory, showed decreases in enrollments totaling 14,970 students. These net losses in numbers of colleges and student enrollments are partially offset by the listing of sixteen colleges in the Directory that were not listed before. These colleges, listed after Table VII, had a fall 1968 enrollment of 5,046.

NUMBER AND ENROLLMENT OF PRIVATE TWO-YEAR COLLEGES 1961-1968

Year	Number of Colleges	Enrollment	Per Cent of Change in Enrollment from Preceding Year
1961	273	103,651	-----
1962	278	105,535	+ 1.81%
1963	272	113,290	+ 7.34
1964	267	122,870	+ 8.45
1965	268	140,667	+ 14.48
1966	272	147,119	+ 4.58
1967	264	143,220	- 2.65
1968	254	143,152	- 0.05

The primary reasons cited by the colleges closing were inadequate financing and decreasing student enrollments.

One important change is to be noted in the Directory this year. Previous directories combined all faculty and administrative personnel. The 1969 Directory lists part-time and full-time faculty as well as the total number of administrators. The summary tables II, III, and IV give total faculty figures only. Faculty are described as those giving more than 50 per cent of their time to teaching. The total number of administrative personnel in the fall of 1968 was 11,215. Of this total, 8,758 are in public institutions and 2,457 are in private. Administrative personnel are described as those giving more than 50 per cent of their time to those functions.
